Managing Director's Message

Welcome aboard Team Al Salehi. We are pleased that you have chosen to work with us and likewise you have been selected to be employed by us due to the attributes and traits you displayed during our recruitment process. We look for those in everyone we employ and choose to include you in our team on that basis.

I am looking forward to seeing you grow and develop into an outstanding employee that exhibits a high level of integrity, passion and excellence. We at Al Salehi will ensure that you find your time here to be rewarding, challenging, and meaningful.

I am committed to your development and my door will always be open for you to discuss any professional matter. The keys to your success will be being dependable, and reliable, showing openness, follow-through, attentiveness, documentation, and following policies and procedures of the company. Showing commitment to these traits and your behavior accordingly will not only contribute to your success, but it will also ensure Al Salehi's success too. Your professional growth is of utmost concern to us, because if you grow, our company will grow too.

This handbook provides an overview of the human resources policies and procedures that are the basis of the relationship between Al Salehi and its employees. This version supersedes any and all written/ oral policies from the past. Please take your time to review it thoroughly and direct any questions about any of its part/s – that are unclear to you – to the HR Team.

Finally, ensure that you align your yearly goals with your supervisor so that you are fully aware of what is expected of you, and you can make a positive contribution to the company and the team you belong to. Once again, I am delighted to have you on board and look forward to seeing you grow as a professional during your tenure with us.

All the best!

Behzad Salehi

Code of Conduct

Al Salehi code of conduct is a set of guidelines to ensure that every member of our team knows what is expected of them in their conduct and the consequences associated by not adhering to the code of conduct.

Principle 1: Honesty, Integrity and Fair Play
Al Salehi and its employees are fully committed to the principles of honesty, integrity and fair play in the delivery of services and goods to its customers. All employees should ensure that the business operations, applications for services, procurement or staff recruitment, are dealt with in an open, fair and impartial manner.

Principle 2: Equality and Non-Discrimination
Al Salehi is an equal employment opportunity employer. Employment opportunities are available regardless of race, color, sex, religion, national origin, age, disability or other legally protected status. This principle applies to all aspects of the employment relationship, including recruiting, hiring, training, work assignment, promotion, transfer, termination, and wage and salary administration.
Female employees shall receive the same wages as male employees for the same work, or for a work of equal value. Procedures, controls, and standards for assessment of work of equal value would be in line with what the local law prescribes.

Principle 3: Safety, and Health Practices
Al Salehi is committed to an injury-free workplace that is operated in an environmentally sound manner in compliance with all relevant laws and regulations that protect worker safety and the environment. Employees should perform work in a safe manner.
Employees should adhere to safety norms to protect themselves and their coworkers.

Principle 4: Governance and Anti-corruption
Al Salehi has zero tolerance for corruption. Employees may never offer to provide anything of value directly or indirectly to government officials and business partners to secure an undue advantage. Al Salehi prohibits payment, offers of payment as well as anything of value directly or indirectly with the purpose of influencing or obtaining undue business or personal advantage.

Principle 5: Financial Reporting
All transactions with Al Salehi must be duly recorded to permit the preparation of clear financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles. No false or misleading entries may be made in the books and records of Al Salehi for any reason, and no employee may engage in any arrangement that results in such a prohibited act. No undisclosed or unrecorded funds or assets of Al Salehi may be established for any purpose. No payment on behalf of Al Salehi (including those by cash) may be done without adequate supporting documentation or made with the intention or understanding that any part of such payment is to be used for any purpose other than as described by the documents supporting the payment.

Principle 6: Acceptance of Advantages
Examples of advantages include, but are not limited to, tips in cash, gifts, personal discounts, employment, personal favors, entertainment or commissions. Any advantages offered voluntarily to the employees in their official capacity are regarded as gifts to Al Salehi and they should 'not' be accepted without permission. By default, employees should decline the offer if the acceptance could be perceived as against the interest of Al Salehi, or that of society or lead to complaints of bias or impropriety.

Principle 7: Conflict of Interest
A conflict-of-interest situation arises when the "private interests" of the employee compete or conflict with the interests of Al Salehi. "Private interests" means both the financial and personal interests of the employee or those of their connections including family members and other close affiliates or friends, the clubs and societies to which they belong or any person to whom they owe a favor or are obligated in any way. Employees should avoid using their official position or any information made available to them in the course of their duties to benefit themselves, their affiliates or any other persons with whom they have personal or social ties. They should avoid putting themselves in a position that may lead to an actual or perceived conflict of interest with Al Salehi. Failure to avoid or declare any conflict of interest may give rise to favoritism, abuse of authority or even allegations of corruption. In particular, employees involved in the procurement process should declare conflict of interest. Examples of conflict-of-interest situations are - when an employee has a financial interest in a company that is being considered for selection as Al Salehi's supplier of goods or services. Or when an employee accepts frequent gifts from Al Salehi suppliers or contractors. When an employee has to deal with matters of Al Salehi for which there is an actual or perceived conflict of interest, the employee should inform the MD in person immediately and await the MD's decision.

Principle 8: Misuse of Official Position
An employee who misuses their official position for personal gains or to favor their relatives or friends is liable to disciplinary action or even prosecution. Examples of misuse include an employee responsible for the selection of suppliers giving undue favor or leaking information to his/her relative's company with a view to giving away an undue advantage.

Principle 9: Handling of Classified or Proprietary Information
Employees are not allowed to disclose any classified or exclusive information to anybody without authorization. Employees who have access to or are in control of such information should always provide adequate safeguards to prevent its abuse or misuse. Examples of misuse include disclosure of information in return for monetary rewards, or use of information for personal interest. It should also be noted that unauthorized disclosure of any personal data may result in a breach of the applicable legislation on privacy.

Principle 10: Property of Al Salehi
Employees who are given access to any facility at Al Salehi should ensure that it is properly used for the purpose of conducting Al Salehi business and misuse of the facility for personal use is strictly prohibited. Friends, family members, spouse or any other visitor accompanying employee may only have access to the public areas unless otherwise authorized by the management. Any assets handed over to be recorded in the company asset management system. Any damage done to the property whilst in the employee's possession will be responsible for getting the same repaired or replaced at their cost. Any employee entrusted with Company vehicle has the sole responsibility to maintain it well and get it serviced as required.

Principle 11: Compliance with the Code
It is the personal responsibility of every employee to understand and comply with the Code of Conduct.

Managers should ensure that their subordinates understand and comply with the standards and requirements stated in the Code and address any doubts of interpretation or problems encountered, as well as any suggestions. When facing a potential unethical behavior, the employee should ask her/himself the following questions:

- Is it in accordance with Al Salehi practices and polices?
- Is it in line with the Company's Core Values?
- Is it legal?
- What would my colleagues/Manager/HR /MD think?
- How would I feel about telling someone else what I have done?
- How would our customers react?
- To what extent will this affect the environment?

Any employee who violates any provision of the Code will be subject to disciplinary action. In cases of suspected corruption or other criminal offences, a report will be made to the appropriate authorities.

Principle 12: Reporting
Each employee has a responsibility to promptly report any violation of the Code to the MD or HR. Employees will not be disciplined or retaliated against in any way for reporting violations in good faith. Retaliation against any employee for reporting policy violations, or for testifying, assisting or participating in any manner in inspections is strictly prohibited. Any employee who believes he or she has been subjected to or has witnessed retaliation must immediately report the alleged retaliation to the MD/HR.

ABOUT THE HANDBOOK

This handbook has been designed to provide general guidelines to Al Salehi employees about Al Salehi policies and procedures. It is a guide to help you become familiar with the privileges and obligations associated with being an employee of Al Salehi. None of the policies and guidelines in the Handbook are intended to give rise to contractual rights or obligations, or to be construed as a guarantee of employment for any specific period or any specific type of work. Additionally, these guidelines are subject to modification, amendment or revocation by Al Salehi at any time, without advance notice. Employees are encouraged to consult HR for additional information regarding policies, procedures and privileges described in the Handbook. All employees are expected to abide by these while employed at Al Salehi. The highest standards of personal and professional ethics are always expected of all employees. Further, Al Salehi expects each employee to display good judgement, diplomacy and courtesy in their professional relationships while working with Al Salehi.

This handbook applies to all the employees who are on permanent, probationary and trainee appointments.

DEFINITIONS

In this handbook, unless otherwise expressly stated, the following words and expressions will imply as outlined below:

“Calendar" shall mean the Gregorian calendar and all periods and dates provided for in this handbook shall be construed accordingly.

"Working Week" shall refer to the days you are scheduled to work according to your role in the organization as specified in your contract.
EMPLOYMENT

Appointment: Your appointment is based on your performance in the recruitment process of our Company. Your appointment is subject to the terms and conditions mentioned in the Employment Contract given to you. You need to give your acceptance by signing and returning the duplicate copy of the Employment Contract to HR. Your signing of the Employment Contract implies that you agree to the terms and conditions mentioned therein.

Joining Formalities: At the time of joining, you were given a New Employee Joining Application, which you need to fill in completely and submit it to HR. You will also need to upload the scans of original certificates as well as some other documents to our HR System post your joining. Some of these documents are also essential to obtain a visa where applicable. Therefore, it would be in your interest to ensure that the following documents are ready and available at the time of joining the organization.

- Signed Copy of Employment Contract
- Degree / Provisional / Course completion Certificate of all College / University qualifications

- Passport size photographs
- Copy of your passport
- Experience letter from your previous employer (If applicable)
- Emergency Contact Details
- Visa Copy when available

All the above documents will be stored on the HR System with the New Employee Joining Form.

In addition to the above requirements, you will need to open a Salary Account with a local bank for your salary credits. The formalities of opening an account can be discussed with HR. If you have an existing bank account, you can provide the details of the same to HR.

Employment with the company will commence only upon receiving the work permit from the Ministry of Labor.

Probationary Period: The probationary period serves as an extension of the selection process and gives both you and your supervisor time to see if the job is right for you and you are right for the job. As per the Company standards you will be on probation for a period of 6 months from the date of joining and may be confirmed as a permanent employee upon successful completion of your probation. Your performance during this period will be assessed based on certain standards set by the company which will be discussed with you at the time of joining. No leave is permitted during this period.

If you demonstrate satisfactory work progress during the probationary period and the decision is made to continue your employment at the end of the probationary period, you will receive a letter of confirmation.

During probation, a company may terminate the contract by giving 14 days' notice and an employee may terminate the contract by giving 1 months' notice. However, if the employee wishes to leave the country upon terminating the contract, they need to give 14 days' notice to the employer.

In any case, if the employee leaves the company during probation to join another employer, the employee must provide the details of the new employer, and the new employer must compensate the old employer for the recruitment or contract cost.

Where an employee leaves the country without providing notice during their probation period, he/she may be subject to a 1-year ban from obtaining a UAE work permit from the date he/she leaves the country (subject to exemptions from MOHRE).

Work Schedule: The standard workweek schedule will be discussed at the time of joining and will be incorporated in your employment contract. Other schedules may apply to part-time and shift employees.

The following general rules apply to all work schedules:

- Employees are expected to arrive at work as per their assigned schedule, however, if on a particular day one arrives later than scheduled time deficit can be made up by working that much longer at the end of the workday according to the work needs of the company.
- Tardiness, irregularity, and late arrivals may be deducted from the appropriate leave category at the management's discretion beyond 3 instances of 10 minutes delay from the start time during a month.
- Supervisors shall take appropriate action to correct any abuse or misuse of work schedules.
- If employee leaves work early, supervisors need to be informed, and the time may be charged to the appropriate leave account.
- An employee may be required to sometimes work beyond scheduled hours due to workload.
- Certain roles may require different work schedules; such roles will be intimated in advance.
- Employees can take an early leave of 1 hour with permission from their Supervisor – no more than twice in a month only when it is absolutely necessary.

In case an employee is not able to attend work on a particular day, due to sickness or another reason, the same should be applied through the HR System the same day. Failure to do so may result in unpaid leave.

Work Behavior: It is essential that all employees accept personal responsibility for maintaining high standards of conduct and job performance, including observance of the company rules and policies. Violations of these standards will result in disciplinary action. Disciplinary action is considered a dimension of performance evaluation. It is a corrective process to help employees overcome work-related shortcomings, strengthen work performance and achieve success.

Performance Expectations: At the time of joining, you will be given a copy of your Job Description along with a set of expectations that the company expects you to deliver on. These expectations will be made in consultation with you and will be evaluated from time to time in our Performance Management System once implemented.

Performance Evaluation: Annual Performance Evaluation will be done each year during the month of January every year for each employee having been employed for 6 months or longer. The evaluation period will cover the period from 1st January through 31st December. This review is generally a culmination of ongoing dialogue throughout the year between the supervisors and their team members. This review will be directed to enhance job understanding, recognize and promote exemplary performance, identify areas needing improvement and may serve as a basis of salary increments/revision based on overall company performance and management decisions. It will also be the documented record of performance post the review meeting.

Process: The annual review process will be kicked off by HR through communication of timelines of review. Post this, self-evaluation forms will need to be filled in by each employee to appraise themselves on what their accomplishments were during the Appraisal Year. Upon completion of the self-evaluation form, the following actions will be accomplished:

The Immediate Supervisor will:

- Complete the evaluation form as promptly as possible. Performance must be discussed in the evaluation form. Reasons for dissatisfactory performance will also be described in respective sections and specific actions for how performance can be improved will need to be outlined in the evaluation form.
- Discuss evaluation with the employee emphasizing strong and weak points in job performance. Appreciate the employee for a job well done if applicable and discuss specific corrective action if warranted. Set mutual goals for the employee to reach before the next performance evaluation. Recommendations should specifically state methods to correct weaknesses and/or prepare the employee for a future course of action.
- Allow the employee to make any written comments he/she desires. Have employees acknowledge the evaluation form after supervisor's comments.
- After the completion of this evaluation by the supervisor, and review by the employee, revisions must be discussed by both parties. In addition, if changes in the form are made after the employee has signed the form, the level of authority making the changes must notify the immediate supervisor.

- The Next Level Supervisor will:
- Review each form to ensure further actions on the appraisal.
- See that proper actions have been taken to resolve any identified conflicts.
- Account for all evaluation forms in his/her area of responsibility.

HR Team will:

Review for completeness and accuracy. Any unresolved problems will be brought to the attention of the line of authority concerned. The completed forms will be maintained in employee's records.

Apart from the Annual performance evaluation, all Supervisors are also expected to conduct quarterly reviews - the framework for which will be provided by HR in detail.

Job Description: At the time of joining the employee will be given a Job Description, that will outline the needs of the role. In addition to it, according to the employee's position in the organization and the requirements of the company, the employee may be given a new Job Description discussed mutually between employee and his/her supervisor. The signed Job Description sheet will be maintained in a file with HR which will be used for future appraisals.

Roles and Responsibilities: The roles and responsibilities of the employee will be specified by the immediate superior of the employee at the time of joining. Apart from the roles mentioned initially, the Company may assign new roles and responsibilities to the employee as and when required.

Promotions: An employee may be promoted to a senior position with added responsibility within the company upon fulfilling certain criteria set out for a particular role. There is no automatic entitlement to promotion based on seniority or tenure.

Transfers: Employees may be transferred to any of the new offices that the Company might open within UAE. The leave credits and all the other benefits will be transferred without a break. The Personnel File will also be transferred to the new location in case of transfer.

COMPENSATION

Pay: Salary payout will be according to the pay structure specified in Employment Contract. This will be paid after making the necessary deductions. The Company is required by law to deduct the following from your pay:

- Any advance/loans/fines recoveries or other deductions that have been mutually agreed beforehand
- Absences from work not covered by authorized leave credits

Pay Periods: Payday will be before 5th of each month for the payout of the previous month.

Pay Mode: Pay will be directly deposited into the salary account within designated bank or any other designated exchange account. Employees will receive an electronic salary slip indicating the net amount deposited into the account after any additions, subtractions and deductions from the salary.

BENEFITS

Medical Insurance: The Company provides the benefits of Medical Insurance to all the employees. The Company will pay the premium of any such Medical Insurance Policy. The employee at the time of joining will be required to fill required forms and submit the same to HR. The employee will receive a medical insurance card, the list of hospitals, as well as the claims process from the medical insurance company within 1 month of joining. At the commencement of employment, each employee is provided with an E-Insurance card, Network List and Table of Benefits once enrolled. Please remember your medical policy might not cover all medical procedures / treatment. Employees are advised always to refer to the HR Department and / or call the contact numbers provided on the card.

End of Service Benefit: On termination of employment, employees will be entitled to an end of service gratuity payment in accordance with the provisions of the Labor Law of their work location. For the avoidance of doubt, any end of service gratuity payment is calculated on Basic Salary only (excluding any allowance, commission or bonus payments whatsoever).

Certification and Training Expenses: With the objective of promoting quality and keeping its employees updated on the latest technologies, the company may – from time to time – require the employees to go through certifications and training. The Company will expect the employees to undergo the same with full commitment and accountability for successful completion.

ATTENDANCE & LEAVES

Attendance: Employees are expected to adhere to the work schedule assigned to them.

Timings: The general office timings are from 8.30AM in the morning to 6.00PM – Monday to Saturday, with a 1-hour break for Lunch. The above-mentioned rules will not apply if:

- The Employee is under a Shift Schedule; or
- If an alternative schedule has been agreed in advance for a particular day(s).
- The Employee has notified his Superior in advance of the late coming for that day.

Public Holidays: Public Holidays will be declared from time to time depending on the notification from MOHRE and will be notified to employees through official announcements.

Company recognized public holidays are as follows:

- New Year's Day (1 Day)
- Eid Al Fitr (As announced by MOHRE)
- Eid Al Adha and Waqf (As announced by MOHRE)
- Islamic New Year (1 Day)
- Prophet Mohammad's PBUH Birthday (1 Day)
- Commemoration Day (As announced by MOHRE)
- UAE National Day (As announced by MOHRE)

Time Off in Lieu: Employees on the field in technical roles are eligible for compensatory-off only when he/she has worked on a week off or a paid holiday for a full day. Any such work performed on the weekly off or on paid holiday should have prior approval from the employee's reporting manager. For any other extra hours worked, employees in the field in technical roles will be compensated with overtime based on attendance records. Off in lieu will not be applicable to an employee in the following scenarios:

- Extending normal working hours on weekdays on their own
- Working to complete the targets/assignments
- Time spent for attending any conference, meeting, training program or seminar or social function which benefits employees and are held on holidays or weekends

It is the responsibility of the approving supervisor to check and approve the off in lieu (leave)/overtime applied by a team member in the HR System. Any compensatory off accrued must be taken within 8 weeks from the date of accrual.

Leaves: In order to ensure the smooth running of the business, it is imperative that employees plan and book their annual leave with prior approval from their Supervisor. The annual leave year runs from 1st January to 31st December. In cases where there are multiple leave requests from the same department for the same timeframe, the decision to approve or deny a vacation request is solely at the discretion of the management. It's important to note that employees are not permitted to take their annual vacation during the peak business months of December and January. Any exceptions to this rule can only be approved by the management. Employees are entitled to the following types of leave:

- Annual Leave: Employees shall be entitled to 30 calendar days a year where the employee's period of service is more than 1 year. Employees joining during the year will be eligible for their leave accumulated from their date of joining. Employees should endeavor to take their annual leave entitlement in the same year, however, when this is not possible, up to 10 days annual leave may be carried forward to the following year. Any leave carried forward needs to be availed in the following year before the end of June in that year. Only in case of employees being under probation, accumulated leave in the first year may be permitted to be carried forward in full.

Upon separation, any unused accumulated annual leave will be paid based on basic salary only.

- Sick Leave: Employees are entitled to a leave of absence by reason of sickness, injury or other incapacity, in accordance with the UAE Labor Law up to a maximum of 90 calendar days per annum where the first 15 calendar days are at full pay, the next 30 calendar days are at half pay and the remaining 45 calendar days are without pay.

- Bereavement Leave: All employees are entitled up to 5 days' bereavement leave when immediate family members (parents, spouse or children, siblings) pass away. Bereavement leave can be taken as a single continuous 5 day leave at the time the incident has occurred, and this leave cannot be accumulated, enchased or carried forward. Also, the employee needs to submit the death certificate within 90 days of the loss for this leave to be considered bereavement.

- Parental Leave: Upon completion of 6 months' probation period, employees will be entitled to take paid "parental leave" for a period of 5 working days. Such leave shall be taken successively or separately during the period of 6 months following the date of birth of the child.

- Maternity Leave: Female employees are required to inform the company latest by the end of first trimester of the pregnancy and, if requested by the company provide a certificate/letter from their doctor confirming the pregnancy. At the time of or following the notification of pregnancy to the company, employees are required to advise the direct supervisor of their expected date of childbirth and to confirm the intended start date for their maternity leave. Employees based in UAE are entitled to maternity leave with full pay for a period of 45 calendar days followed by 15 calendar days of half pay. This will include the time before and after delivery. A female employee who has exhausted her maternity leave may be absent from work without pay for a maximum period of 45 consecutive or non-consecutive days if such absence is due to an illness preventing her from resuming her work. A medical certificate issued by a duly authorized medical institution or authenticated by the competent health authority confirming that the illness is a result of pregnancy or delivery will need to be submitted in this case.

A female employee shall be entitled, after reporting back to work from maternity leave and for a period of not exceeding 6 months, following the date of delivery, to 1 or 2 breaks per day to nurse her child, provided that such period does not exceed 1 hour.

All end user devices including Laptop, Mobile Phone, iPad, Desk phone are considered company IT assets issued to the employees and should be handled in an appropriate manner and kept safely. Employees travelling with company property must take all reasonable precautions to ensure the items are always kept secure. Loss or theft of the devices should be reported immediately to the HR Department.

Telephone Use: Employees can make and receive calls on the Company phone only for business purposes. Misuse of the same can lead to disciplinary action. Under no circumstances should the company phone be used to pay personal parking charges or download non-official applications. If any unofficial expenses are cited, the same will be adjusted through deductions from employee's salary payout.

Internet Use: The Company's internal network is connected to the Internet. Every employee with computer access to the internal network has access to the Internet, including use of e-mail and the World Wide Web. While the Internet is a great resource for our organization, it is the responsibility of each employee to use this resource responsibly and respectfully. It is assumed that the predominant use of these resources will be for work use, and that any personal use of e-mail or the World Wide Web will be extremely limited. Personal use will never be a priority over work matters. If an employee is found spending excessive time on personal use of these resources, this privilege may be modified for that employee.

E-mail sent from the Company should be treated the same as any other communication that is sent. All communications represent the Company as a whole, and as such, should be written in a professional and appropriate manner. This also applies to any material that is published on the Company website or any other social media.

Expense Reimbursement: Employees should get pre-approval for their expenses from their Supervisor. All employees are expected to submit their expense reimbursements by 10th and 25th of each month.

COMMUNICATION

WhatsApp Messenger: Employees may occasionally use WhatsApp Messenger connected through a network, for internal communications. However, employees are restricted from sending any obscene or vulgar messages to fellow employees using any instant messenger. Offenders will have to face a disciplinary action as deemed appropriate by the Company.

GRIEVANCES & SUGGESTIONS

Grievance Handling: A positive relationship between employees and supervisors is based on mutual trust, respect and open communication. If an employee has a problem or grievance concerning the employment, the employee should first discuss the issue or concern with his/her immediate supervisor. In most cases, these discussions can clear up any misunderstanding or conflict. If the employee is not successful in resolving the concern about his/her employment, work related grievances or any other unresolved issue, the employee can approach the HR Team to address work-related problems or complaints fairly and without any fear of repercussion.

Process Improvement: The Company also has a Process Improvement Program where the employees can suggest any improvements by sending an e-mail to HR.

Employee Suggestion Program: In addition to the Process Improvement Program the Company also encourages suggestions from employees, where an employee can suggest anything which might be useful to the Company in any aspect. The same can also be shared by email to HR.
